Promising Practices Toolkits
Presented by Canadian Aboriginal AIDS Network
Canadian Aboriginal AIDS Network is proud to launch Promising Practices Toolkits at this year’s Aboriginal AIDS Awareness Week kickoff event.

The objective of the Promising Practices program is to facilitate a response to, and decrease the number of, HIV, HCV and other STBBI infections, transmissions and acquisitions for Indigenous people. These toolkits provide First Nations On-Reserve, Indigenous Communities Off-Reserve and Metis People with up to date promising practices resources on these issues presented in a culturally relevant manner for Indigenous People wherever they reside.

The four new toolkits include: 1) HIV Toolkits, 2) Hepatitis C Toolkits, 3) STBBIs Toolkit and 4) The Harm Reduction Toolkit. The toolkits can be utilized by the communities to implement culturally based prevention interventions, which address barriers for Indigenous people with lived experience, stakeholders and communities.

We want to thank the Steering Committees for their guidance and leadership, Public Health Agency of Canada and the First Nations Inuit Health Branch for their contributions to the success of this project. These new resources are available on CAAN website at www.caan.ca.
