

JOURNAL OF INDIGENOUS HIV RESEARCH
VOLUME 13 CALL FOR PAPERS
EXTENDED DEADLINE: WEDNESDAY JULY 15, 2022

The JIHR is a peer-reviewed journal which welcomes contributions from any author. Priority however, may be given to an author of Indigenous ancestry/background, should manuscripts of comparable quality be available. First consideration will be given to innovative articles covering areas identified as HIV/AIDS research-intensive which demonstrates the use of community-based research (CBR) methods and/or philosophy.

Articles published in the JIHR are directed toward several audiences. The primary audience is Indigenous HIV/AIDS service organizations and Indigenous people living with HIV and AIDS (IPHAs). The JIHR secondary audiences include community leaders, policy and decision-makers, and anyone with an interest in HIV/AIDS, particularly within Indigenous populations and communities.

Articles should be written from a strengths-based perspective. Authors are encouraged to highlight how the principles of GIPA (Greater Involvement of People Living with HIV) and MEPA (Meaningful Engagement of People Living with HIV) have been applied throughout all research processes, including manuscript submissions.

All submissions go through a double-blinded peer review process.

The JIHR (formerly the Canadian Journal of Aboriginal HIV/AIDS Community-Based Research) is published annually, by CAAN/AHA Centre since 2006.

Articles must fall under one or more of the following headings:

- Indigenous community-based HIV and AIDS research development and findings: Quantitative, qualitative, or mixed methods research that is community-engaged throughout. We welcome papers that speak to any stage of the research process, including research development, design, data collection and analysis processes and findings.
- Emerging Issues in Community-based HIV and AIDS Research with Indigenous communities: These articles focus on ground-breaking issues, the application of ethics protocol such as the TCPS 2, OCAP—TM (Ownership, Control, Access and Possession), the Principles of Métis Health Research, Inuit Qaujimanitugangit (IQ), and/or other locally enforced protocols that are grounded in Community-Based Research (CBR).
- Student work: Students can submit articles (term papers, thesis, etc.) that focus on HIV and the expanded mandate in Indigenous communities.
- Commentary: Opinion pieces which speak to trends in Indigenous community-based research, Knowledge Translation or other issues of importance to Indigenous stakeholders.
- Stories: Personal accounts of experiences related to HIV research, or accounts of successful and innovative approaches that address HIV in Indigenous communities.
- International work that includes an Indigenous Canadian component: Articles written for an international audience about Indigenous peoples, HIV and AIDS and/or related issues. Articles must include a Canadian component.

Submission Deadline: Please submit two copies (one blinded, one not blinded) of your manuscript and a cover letter via e-mail to Marni Amirault (marnia@caan.ca) before Monday, June 01, 2022 by 4:30pm PST.

Inquiries: Inquiries related to the suitability of manuscripts, article submission, writing style, peer review guidelines, updates or back issues, may be directed to Marni Amirault (marnia@caan.ca).
